YANK TROOPS
NOW PUSHING ON TO BERLINMAIN BATTLE FOR FRANCE OVER;
NAZIS FLEE

BY WILLIAM F. BONI
Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Thursday, Aug. 24 (AP)—American armor hammered outburst gains south and southeast of Paris today while to the northwest of the capital—now fully in control of French patriots—Americans and Canadians clamped a tightening stranglehold on remnants of the German army still below the river Seine.

Allied fighters and fighter bombers harried the Germans' frantic efforts to withdraw across the river by any possible means. The latest advance south of Paris saw armored reconnaissance units drive more than 15 miles east of Sens while others passed through Corbail and Melun, and still others gained positions between Orleans and Sens.

Resistance Light
Chief prize in the drive on the lower reaches of the Seine was Evreux, which the Americans freed, while a parallel Yank advance neared Conches farther west. Resistance everywhere was light except where the Germans slowed the Canadian advance in the 45-by-30-mile pocket by blocking further bridgeheads across the Touques river.

(A Belgian) communiqué said Belgian troops fighting beside the Allies had advanced 12 miles along the channel coast, overcoming stiff resistance as they fanned out above Deauville, but inflicting heavy losses on the Germans.)

"The main battle for France is already over," declared Associated Press correspondent Harold Boyle, who watched U. S. tanks drive 15 miles east of Sens to within 150 miles of the German border with no sign that the Germans were rallying for a stand.

Siegfried Line News
Truckloads of prisoners streamed back in the wake of American advance, but there was not a single smoldering enemy vehicle to indicate the enemy had put up a determined fight, said his dispatch, datelined "en route to Berlin."

Supreme headquarters withheld from the world the progress of American forces charging forward from Sens, 65 miles southeast of Paris, and those forging north across the Seine in an effort to pin the battered Seventh and 15th German armies against the sea.

But the speed with which these spearheads have been moving, and with the power of German arms sapped by the Normandy beatings, it was difficult to see how an enemy stand could be organized short of the Siegfried line along Germany's western and southern frontiers.

Pressure Kept Up
Headquarters also had no comment on the deliverance of Paris, which Lt. Gen. Joseph Pierre Koenig, commander of French forces of the interior, proclaimed four years and 74 days from the hour that Adolf Hitler's legions marched under the Arc de Triomphe.

Presumably American forces which drove through Rambouillet and Etampes, 27 and 30 miles respectively southwest of Paris, were engaging German forces fighting with their backs to a city now in hostile hands. Capture of Pithiviers, 48 miles south of Paris, also was confirmed.

American columns battled the enemy in the forts of Pont-neuve, 85 miles southeast of the capital. They were believed to be

Plunging Red
Army Moving
On Bucharest

BY W. W. HERCHER
London, Thursday, Aug. 24 (AP)—The two-front Soviet offensive that knocked Romania out of the war roared through its fourth day yesterday, capturing Vaslui, 140 miles northeast of the Ploesti oil center, and toppling the two big Bessarabian bastions of Tighina and Catatea-Alba on the west bank of the Dniester, and more than 400 other towns.

Disregarding developments on the political front, at least for the present, the Second and Third Ukrainian armies deepened to as much as 60 miles the holes they have ripped in the German-Romanian defenses and advanced within 167 miles of the capital city of Bucharest.

Romania still was garrisoned with thousands of German troops, and the Russians were likely to continue their lightning campaign to drive the Nazis entirely out of the country, regardless of what Romanian troops chose to do.

The swift advance of the Second army supported the Russian statement that with the capture of last Tuesday they had broken through the most serious defensive system to be found before Bucharest.

The last defense zone included three series of pillboxes and trenches with communicating tunnels and wide barbed wire and mine belts, yet Malinovsky's men lifted the mines and broke through the German fire curtain so quickly that last itself was reported to be generally intact.

Contrary to German claims that they had been able to perform extensive demolitions, Russian accounts said the neat stone city was in good shape and that the enemy pulled out so fast he left behind many wounded and 147 freight carsloads of ammunition and food.

The magnitude of the German-Romanian disaster was typified by the numbers of enemy wounded that Red Army men found abandoned in fields and ditches as the Soviet offensive rolled steadily southward, nearer to Bucharest and Ploesti.

Bucharest, once-gay capital of the kingdom, was reported in ruin, with Romanians seeing little chance of stopping the Soviet steamroller.

Romania's exit from the war would cost Hitler one of his most productive sources of oil and food and would have a tremendous effect on the position of all the Balkans, which watched the Russian offensive with eagerness and foreboding.

PLANE STRIKES
SCHOOL, 75 DIETragedy in Britain Is Fatal To 35 Children
All Under Five

BY LEWIS HAWKINS
London, Aug. 23 (AP)—Fifty-four persons, including 35 children all under five, were killed today when a flaming American bomber plunged into a church school infants' department in the quiet Lancashire village of Freckleton.

Eight American soldiers were among those killed, including three members of the plane's crew. Normally ten men comprise the crew. The death toll was expected to reach 75 in Britain's worst accident of the kind.

The plane smashed through the top of the school building where 41 children under five, many of them refugees from robot bomb attacks, were assembled. It careened across the street and crashed into a snack bar where several dozen soldiers and a staff of six women were gathered.

The flames spread swiftly through the school, the snack bar and several buildings nearby. Fire brigades from neighboring districts brought the fires under control, and the bodies of 34 children and 16 adults were recovered from the smoldering wreckage. Two or three of the 41 infants removed were injured.

The rest were missing and believed dead and others who had been in the snack bar were unaccounted for. All 140 in another group of children who were in the junior and senior departments of the school escaped serious injury.

DAVAO RAIDED;
FIRES STARTEDBombers Clear Way For Invasion Plans In Philippines

General Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Thursday, Aug. 24 (AP)—Bombers from the southwest Pacific started large fires in a raid upon Davao in the Philippines, Headquarters announced today.

Navy Liberators patrolling the waters of the southern Philippines sank a small freighter northeast of Mindanao Tuesday.

Although Davao has been bombed before, this was the first time that pilots reported starting large fires there.

Other planes destroyed or damaged a small freighter near Celebes Island, west of New Guinea, and blasted Ceram Island in the Moluccas with 39 tons of bombs Monday.

Southwest Pacific bombers also raided Palau in the Carolines Monday, and left a Japanese destroyer tender dead in the water. Halmahera, largest of the Moluccas, also was under attack.

Japanese air resistance over Halmahera has ceased. Airfields and dromes not destroyed by the enemy to prevent their use later by Allied forces apparently have been bombed into uselessness. Destruction of parked planes is reported frequently, indicating the enemy cannot get into the air.

Supply dumps, bivouac areas, personnel and defense positions are being leveled by the sustained campaign to knock out the island last major barrier to a southern invasion of the Philippines.

SOVIET TERMS
ARE ACCEPTEDLITTLE NATION WILL FIGHT ON SIDE OF ALLIES

BY TOM YARBROUGH
London, Thursday, Aug. 24 (AP)—Romania announced last night that she was switching from the Axis to the Allied side in the war and a subsequent Soviet communiqué reported that shooting had broken out between retreating Romanian and Nazi soldiers on the eastern front.

Acceptance of armistice terms offered by the Soviet Union, Great Britain and the United States was announced in a proclamation broadcast from Bucharest.

Hostilities Cease

The early morning Russian communiqué, recorded by the Soviet monitor from a Moscow broadcast, told of clashes on Romanian soil between the Romanians, ordered by King Mihai to cease hostilities against the Red army, and the Germans.

Romanian prisoners were quoted as saying that the Germans were firing on the Romanians and blocking their withdrawal.

"A large number of Romanian officers and men have been killed," said the communiqué, "in armed clashes between the retreating Romanian detachments and German frontier detachments in several places."

A proclamation by young King Mihai, read over the Bucharest radio, said all hostilities against the Red army as well as Romania's state of war with Britain and America would cease "from this moment."

Russian armies were stabbing into Romania to within 167 miles of Bucharest and threatening the Ploesti oil fields as the announcement went on the air.

Axis Ring Cracks
Romania, the king said, will fight "at the side of the Allied army and with their help."

There was no immediate official confirmation of the royal proclamation by any of the three Allied nations, but London showed no inclination to doubt the broadcast—the first crack in Hitler's Balkan structure.

Prime Minister Churchill has been in Italy for more than a week and presumably had a hand in the events leading up to Romania's decision.

On Aug. 2 Churchhill told the house of commons, "Russia has offered generous terms to Romania and I have no doubt that they would be accepted with gratitude by the Romanian people if only the Romanian leaders had not a Prussian automatic pistol pressed

Marseille Falls,
Toulon Encircled

BY GEORGE TUCKER

Rome, Aug. 23 (AP)—Marseille, France's second city and greatest seaport, fell to the swift onslaught of French infantry and armor today as American forces swept 140 miles inland from the Mediterranean and captured Grenoble to within less than 240 miles of a junction with General Eisenhower's legions below liberated Paris.

Only eight days after the landings in southern France the inspired Poilus battered their way into the heart of Marseille against slight Nazi resistance and tonight were cleaning out pockets of last-ditch defenders.

Supply Port Assured

The unexpectedly easy capture of the great port insures the Seventh army an adequate flow of supplies and reinforcements for a speedy continuation of their thrust toward northern France. Prior to the city's fall, other French troops had cut the last escape route for the German garrison along the coast to the west.

The encircled and doomed Nazi force in Toulon, big naval base 27 miles east of Marseille, still was holding out tonight, but French troops had fought their way within a few hundred yards of the docks and the city's fall was expected any hour.

Americans Biscet France

Matching the French victory in its spectacular quality was the dash of American forces into the big industrial city of Grenoble—a reckless drive that threatened to bisect France and trap every German soldier in the southern and western parts of the country.

Allies Make Steady Push
On Bordeaux

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ
Trun, Spain, Aug. 23 (AP)—American and French forces, reinforced by troops landed last night from the sea, were reported by French authorities at Hendaye to be pushing steadily toward Bordeaux from both sides tonight.

Frontline messages said Americans had reached Libourne, on the Dordogne River 15 miles north-east of the great Atlantic port of Bordeaux, which is the last center of German resistance in southwestern France.

French military authorities at Hendaye, French border town, said 800 French commandos were among Allied forces that landed last night south of Arcachon, between Bordeaux and Libourne.

The French landed from French destroyers. Exact size and composition of the force were not known here but border reports said it was mostly American.

The French at Hendaye said aerial reconnaissance indicated the Germans had given up previous attempts to organize an armored column and fight their way northward to the Reich, and now appeared to be preparing to make some sort of stand at Bordeaux.

The Allied naval vessels that landed the troops south of Arcachon continued to aid them by pouring shells into Nazi camps as they steamed along the coast.

There also was considerable Allied air activity over the area. Hendaye, which donated a gala dress for its own liberation yesterday, simply continued the celebration without interruption tonight in honor of the freeing of Paris.

The Roving Reporter

By ERNIE PYLE

ON THE WESTERN FRONT—(By Wireless)—We ran to the wrecked British plane, lying there upside down, and dropped on our hands and knees and pecked about the wreckage for a tiny hole in the side.

A man lay on his back in the small space of the upside-down cockpit. His feet disappeared some where in the jumble of dials and rubber pedals above him.

His shirt was open and his chest was bare to the waist. He was smoking a cigarette.

He turned his eyes toward me when I pecked in, and he said in a typical British manner of off-hand friendliness, "Oh, Hello."

"Are you all right," I asked, stupidly.

He answered, "Yes, quite. Now

As the swift American column of armor, self-propelled guns and motorized infantry plunged almost unopposed through the French Alps it appeared that the two Allied fronts would be joined much sooner than was originally thought possible—perhaps in a matter of days. Nazi resistance to the Allied Seventh army's smashing drive was officially described as "weak and disorganized." More than 17,000 prisoners had been taken.

In their dramatic dash to Grenoble, an important communications center of about 100,000 population, Yank tanks and doughboys advanced at least 80 miles beyond their last reported position. Tonight they were less than 70 miles from the Swiss border near Geneva and virtually had severed communications between German forces in France and Italy.

Retreat Blocked

Allied headquarters credited French Patriot forces with "playing an effective support role" in the actual capture of Grenoble, long a hot-bed of opposition to the Nazis. The city was the first one of importance to open its gates to Napoleon upon his triumphal return from exile on Elba 129 years ago.

Spearhead—the American armor—only a week after the landing on the beaches of southern France—was in position to strike 58 miles northwest to the great rail hub of Lyon and to throttle all enemy efforts to escape up the Rhone valley into northern France.

With that vital passageway through the mountains effectively blocked, German troops now defending the big seaport of Marseille against the assault of French forces as well as other Nazi divisions beating their way westward out of the coastal region could have little hope of ever joining Hitler's hard-pressed armies in the north.

REGION AROUND
LYON LIBERATED

Nazi Occupying Forces
Chases Out Of About
Third Of France

BY JAMES F. KING
London, Aug. 23 (AP)—French resistance forces were reported to have ripped the entire Lyon region and the city of Perpignan from the grip of Nazi occupying forces today in fighting that raged along the entire Spanish frontier area and against German pockets throughout the whole of resurgent France.

A recapitulation showed that the Allied armies and French forces of the interior had liberated roughly one third of France—212,569 square miles—as the last vestige of the Vichy government of Pierre Laval disappeared as a political force.

The liberation of Paris and Allied entry into Marseille rounded out the progressing collapse of Germany's hold on France after four years of occupation.

Radio France at Algiers reported the liberation of the Lyon region and said that three Allied planes had already landed at Perpignan to establish contact with the FFL.

Radio Atlantic, whose location never has been officially announced, said the Swiss government had not yet made any decision as this step was seen as an effort to assure a haven for Fascist leaders even from Germany.

There was no confirmation of the report in other quarters. Laval, chief of government in the Vichy regime, was last declared in Swiss-French border reports to be virtually a prisoner of the Nazis in Belfort.

Reed City

Reed City, Mich., Aug. 23 (AP)—Miles M. Callaghan of Reed City, former state representative who pleaded guilty in legislative graft trials last January, died at his home today.

Callaghan, who admitted conspiring to accept a bribe for his vote on the small loan bill, suffered a stroke Sunday. He had a similar stroke several months ago just before he was scheduled to testify as a state witness in the first graft trials. He did not testify, but his testimony was read into the record at the trials.

Callaghan, who had not been sentenced, was elected state representative from the Oscoda district in 1929 and served consecutive terms until 1935. He served as state senator for the 28 state senatorial district from 1937 until 1941 when he was again elected a representative. He resigned in 1943.

Royal Navy Sinks
8 Enemy Vessels
Off Brest Coast

London, Aug. 23 (AP)—Under the nose of German coastal batteries, royal navy ships destroyed eight enemy vessels before daybreak today in two running battles in Audierne Bay, between Brest and Lorient, the British admiralty announced.

Two minesweepers, three supply ships and three escort vessels were listed as the victims. Taking part in the engagements were the Canadian destroyer Iroquois, the British destroyer Ursa and the cruiser Mauritius, from which Capt. W. W. Davis commanded the force.

These ships came through without casualty or damage, said the admiralty, although German shore batteries also opened up on them.

Swiss Are Asked

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—The German ambassador to Switzerland was reported by the secret German language station radio Atlantik tonight to have asked the Swiss government for asylum for Pierre Laval, NBC recorded the broadcast.

Radio Atlantik, whose location never has been officially announced, said the Swiss government had not yet made any decision as this step was seen as an effort to assure a haven for Fascist leaders even from Germany.

There was no confirmation of the report in other quarters. Laval, chief of government in the Vichy regime, was last declared in Swiss-French border reports to be virtually a prisoner of the Nazis in Belfort.

In The Service

Miami Beach, Fla.—Second Lt. William V. Thoren, of Escanaba, Mich., returned from service outside the continental United States, now is being processed through the Army Air Forces Redistribution Station No. 2 in Miami Beach, where his next assignment will be determined.

This is one of the redistribution stations within the AAF Personnel Distribution Command. At an AAF Redistribution Station, AAF returnees are examined by specially selected medical and classification officers whose joint findings are used in recommending new assignments. These of the AAF redistribution program is designation of each man to duty for which he is best fitted. Returnees live at a redistribution station under conditions that encourage natural response to processing, the greater part of their two-week stay being devoted to rest and recreation. AAF personnel, enlisted men and officers alike, are assigned to a redistribution station upon their return to the United States, but do not report to the station until completing a furlough or leave of three weeks. Lt. Thoren, 23, B-26 pilot, flew 60 missions during 15 months in the European theater and was awarded the DFC and Air Medal with ten oak leaf clusters. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor E. Thoren, 1907 Ludington street, Escanaba.

Bluejacket Wilbert Herman Westerberg, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Z. Westerberg, 1314 North 18th street, Escanaba, graduated from the Naval Training School (Radio) at the University of Chicago and received recognition as eligible to qualify for the petty officer rate of radioman third class. Selection to attend the specialty school is based on results of recruit training aptitude tests. The course of study includes the use, operation and maintenance of radio equipment and the operation of navy radio transmitting and receiving equipment. The theoretical phase includes electricity and radio fundamentals.

Capt. Donald F. LeMire, who is with the American armed forces in France, recently wrote an interesting letter to his mother, Mrs. W. A. LeMire, 421 Second avenue south, describing some of his experiences in the fighting in France.

Excerpts from his letter follow: "I've lived a lifetime in the last two weeks. It's been the most exciting time of my life. We've got them on the run and we're going to keep them there. This life is rugged but the whole bunch of us are willing as long as success seems inevitable.

"I wish I could give you the whole story. Some I can't tell and some I haven't time for, but some day we'll talk it all over.

"As for my work, I've taken care of hundreds and hundreds of wounded and 90 per cent of them, fortunately, are Germans. Our boys are doing O. K. and they know how to take care of themselves. Despite everything, our supplies are good. Food is plentiful. The French here have been wonderful in various ways. They stand along the road as we pass and give us wine, cornac, etc. The water is bad so the wine is quite a thirst quencher. It is quite hard tending to hear the church bells ring and the people yelling and flags flying.

"I have plenty of cigarettes now as I was able to get five cartons when we left England. I've smoked as many as four packs in a day, but that is 24 hours, which is our schedule when the necessity arises."

Fire Extinguished
After 3 Hour Fight

Started by a group of boys, who had a shack in the area, a brush and grass fire, one-half mile east of the state fair grounds, burned for three hours yesterday before being brought under control by a group of 50 fire fighters.

The blaze was reported to the conservation department about four o'clock yesterday afternoon by the youngsters, who accused one another of starting it. It was not brought under control until about seven o'clock last night, and a crew of city employees maintained an all night vigil in the area.

Approximately 30 city employees, coast guardsmen and conservation officers participated in the fight to bring the blaze under control. A tractor and plough were used and a fire line was ploughed around the area. According to the conservation department, no valuable timber was damaged by the fire, which covered about 40 acres of ground.

How Different Will be Post-war Homes?

Matt Doorly, our local carpenter, has been showing us architect's drawings of the kind of post-war houses that we're going to live in. Some of them look like squared-off dominoes; some are streamlined like they were going to fly. And they're all filled with fancy things like air-conditioning and what-not.

"Sure change our home life!" Matt says importantly.

"Shucks," says Dan Mason, "it isn't the shape of a house, or the gadgets in it, that make up your home life."

"What is it then?" says Matt.

clashed against their breast or at the nape of their neck."

That same day Foreign Secretary Eden said Britain had concurred in the terms before they were offered.

Frontier "Unjust" The king's proclamation indicated the terms offered Romania were help in routing the German forces from inside her borders and recovery of Transylvania from Hungary, which was given the province by Hitler in the Vienna award of August, 1940.

"The United Nations have recognized the injustice of the dictate of Vienna, under which Transylvania was torn from us," the king said. "At the side of the Allied army and with their help we will cross the frontiers unjustly imposed upon us at Vienna."

Interpretation in London of this phase of the king's proclamation was that Romania would not be accepted as an ally, but as a co-belligerent in the category of Italy.

Italy provided an example for the Balkan power by her withdrawal from the Axis under Allied blows last year.

New Red army drives into Romania, richest and most turbulent of the Balkan states, provided impetus for such a decision.

VICHY PUPPETS ARRESTED London, Aug. 23. (AP)—French patriot forces battling in the streets as their forefathers did in 1789 have liberated Paris, the gay heart of France and historic symbol of freedom, bringing to an end four years and two months of Nazi bondage. Gen. Charles De Gaulle's headquarters announced today.

With a great force of American armored troops poised in an assault are almost half way around the capital, 50,000 armed French patriots, aided by several hundred thousand citizens who wielded what arms they could find, defeated the Nazi occupation forces in a four-day battle ending last night.

The patriots occupied all public buildings and arrested all Vichy government representatives who did not flee, said a formal announcement signed by Lt. Gen. Joseph Pierre Koenig, commander of the French forces of the interior and newly-named military governor of Paris under Gen. De Gaulle.

Around the world—in London, New York, Buenos Aires, Algiers and scores of other cities—the release of the "city of light" from the darkness of Nazi rule was hailed in ceremonies featuring the playing of "The Marseillaise," historic anthem of liberty, and the raising of the tri-color of the republic. Church bells were rung in London and many other cities of England.

Fisherman Lands
23 Pound Northern

Chester Cole, of Germfask, has submitted an entry in the Daily Press fishing contest of a northern pike weighing 23 pounds, four ounces, caught recently in Big Manistique lake.

In submitting his entry, he wrote:

"One night floundering around in the dark near a good fishing area, I flashed my light to see what the bottom looked like and there was a big northern pike. Two nights later, at eight o'clock, I came back to fish for him and he hit the pike on the first cast. I was rather disappointed in the fight he put up. He had power to burn, but no speed, though he sure had endurance. After 10 minutes or so I had him pretty well tired out. I didn't have a net or gaff so I hit him with the oar and hauled him with the oar. I also caught a 10 lb., 14 ounce northern and another weighing seven pounds, 3 ounces.

"Since then I have caught in same place the following northern pike—one 16 pounds, one 15 pounds, two 12 pounders two eight pounders and several around five pounds."

CITY MAY BE ON AIR ROUTE

CAB Considering Plan To Link Ten Major Cities In Area

Escanaba will be linked to ten other major cities in Michigan and Illinois through a 361-mile air route if the Civil Aeronautics Board approves an application just submitted by Midwest Airways, Inc.

The flight will be launched from Chicago, terminating in Marquette. In addition to Escanaba, stopover cities on the suggested sky highway are Milwaukee, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Neenah, Appleton, Green Bay, and Marinette, Wis., and Menominee, Mich. Automatic pick-up of mail by airplane will be made from Escanaba if the CAB okays two routes which North Central Airlines, Inc., is seeking to use. First of these proposed skyways stretches from the Twin Cities, Minn., to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., with stops at Eau Claire, Wausau, and Marinette, Wis., as well as Escanaba. The second runs from Sault Ste. Marie to Chicago, using the intermediate points of Escanaba, Marinette, Green Bay, Sheboygan, and Milwaukee.

Close scrutiny of all applications will be made before any new sky routes are approved in future, the CAB announced in describing petitions pending before it. While unnecessary restrictions on the expansion of America's airlines are slated for removal.

al, new sky pathways will have to be proven necessary before the board okays their use.

In addition, the CAB will examine each application to determine whether desirable types of airports are available. Evidence that wasteful competition would result from any suggested route will bring prompt CAB disapproval of the planned run, as will any indication that valuable planes or landing facilities would be wasted on a trip serving a relatively small number of people.

Suggestions for coordinating varied air operations will be advanced by the agency after it completes a study of problems involved in unifying many services. A general pattern of conditions justifying establishment of new routes will be drawn as a guide in assessing future applications.

State Spud Ass'n Benefits Foreseen

MARQUETTE — Organization of the Michigan Potato Development Association, with the avowed purpose of promoting, through advertising and publicity, the marketing of Michigan Potatoes, was seen by the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau as promising high returns to Upper Peninsula potato growers.

Two Upper Peninsula men, L. L. Best of Lake Linden and Clayton Ford of Cornish, have been named on the board of directors of the association.

The association is made up of producers dealers and others interested in the production and marketing of potatoes.

In a statement of the association, the main purpose of the organization was said to be "the promoting of the best interests of the potato industry in Michigan through advertising, representing the industry in problems of interest to the industry and the promotion of united effort on the part of all who produce or handle potatoes in the channels of trade."

Another purpose of the association is to make available funds with which to match state moneys, set aside by the state advertising act under a plan to make available $5 of state money for every $2, within limits, raised for advertising purposes.

Servicemen Want Local Postwar Jobs, They Say

Servicemen from Delta county who have replied to the Escanaba Daily Press servicemen's employment questionnaire show they will want employment in Delta county when they return to their home communities after the war.

The questionnaire is designed to assist the serviceman and his home community by supplying information which will stress the need locally of providing employment for veterans. In filling out the questionnaire the veteran is not making application for employment. He is helping those who seek to assure jobs for the veteran who wants to come home to find work and reestablish himself in civilian life.

One veteran, whose home is in Rapid River, states that he wants employment in Delta county as a principal or coach of a high school. He does not need additional training to fill such a position.

In response to the question what he thinks should be done to make his community a better place in which to live after the war, he suggests:

"Promote education and new industries; recreation; build up the tourist trade."

In line with this thought on development of the tourist trade, as expressed by this serviceman, is the desire of another, whose home is in Gladstone, to set himself up in his own service station or resort business after the war. He will need financial assistance in such a venture.

Prior to operating a business such as he describes, the serviceman from Gladstone would accept employment in road construction work, for which he is qualified.

The servicemen's employment questionnaire is published again today, and relatives and friends of servicemen are asked to clip it and forward it to servicemen in their letters.

Servicemen are encouraged to write on a separate sheet in answer to question No. 7, stating what they think their city government, chamber of commerce and other agencies should do to make for better postwar conditions in their community.

Loud Speaker Gives New Dads Latest On Arrival of Stork

Los Angeles (AP)—In a clinically spotless anteroom at California hospital the Rev. John L. Mixon fixed an apprehensive eye upon a loudspeaker and pressed an iceberg firmly against his bedewed brow.

Suddenly the box blared: "Mr. Mixon, your wife has entered the delivery ward. Everything is just dandy. Normal in every way—relax, now—don't worry. Stand by for further announcement."

"What a sense of humor!" commented another expectant father, J. J. Duschaneck, airlines mechanic.

"The doctor has a nice voice," Rev. Mixon said meekly.

"Mr. Duschaneck!" called the box. "Your wife has entered Delivery Ward 2. She is smiling and cheerful. How are you doing? Old man? Take it easy, now."

Duschaneck sighed, lighted another cigarette. Rev. Mixon tried to look sympathetic. The clock's hands crawled. Both men stared at the box. Then:

"Attention, Mr. Mixon! Listen closely now!"

The loudspeaker emitted a sharp smack, followed almost immediately by W A A A H !

"Congratulations, Mr. Mixon!" the box cried jubilantly. "You are the father of a fine boy! A football player if I ever saw one. Seven pounds."

Rev. Mixon grinned bewilderedly and twisted the iceberg. "Wonderful, isn't it?" he said.

"Terrific," murmured Duschaneck, essaying a smile.

Rev. Mixon pulled himself together and started for the office of Hospital Superintendent Ritz E. Heerman, who thought up this play-by-play idea for panicky papas. At the anteroom doorway

Land Grant Rates

W. M. JEFFERS, former head of the emergency rubber development program and president of the Union Pacific Railroad, says of the land grant freight rates:

"Nearly a century ago, the government, to encourage rail construction, made grants of lands. One of the conditions was that government property should be transported at 50 per cent of tariff rates over those lines traversing the granted territory.

"Over the years, the value of these granted lands, either then or now, has been paid for many times through the application of these land grant deductions.

"The government, in the aggregate, pays less for transportation services than any other shipper in America. In all cases, where land grant deductions are in effect, its rates are only 50 per cent of those you pay.

"The government buys from you and then checks your books. If, in its judgment, you have made too much profit it 'renegotiates' and reduces your selling price. And then you pay income tax on what you have left.

"But in settling with railroads for transportation services, the government:

"1. First pays the full amount which the railroads have earned, based on published tariffs.

"2. The railroads then pay income taxes on what the government has paid, the excess earnings brackets being as high as 95 per cent.

"3. Then government accountants, who are now two or more years behind in their work, re-audit bills previously approved and paid by the government, and withhold from other charges which the government owes the railroads whatever amount its accountants think the government should deduct because of land grants, from bills already paid, and on which income taxes have already been collected.

"The result of this method is that no railroad knows where it stands financially today or where it will stand tomorrow, because the railroads cannot foretell what proportion of their earnings the government may deduct or compel to be returned later to the government.

"In other words, the railroads face the very likely prospect of the government taking away from them, two or three or five years from now, $300,000,000 or more which they now believe they have earned and on which they have paid income taxes. This demand will come from the government after the war traffic and earnings have so diminished that the railroads will not have the money to refund. Their prospect is bankruptcy unless legislation relieves the present situation."

Postwar Fishing Industry

OUTLINE of a report, submitted by the sub-committee on commercial fisheries, headed by Roy A. Jensen of Escanaba, at the meeting of the Michigan Planning commission in Houghton last Friday, indicates that this industry is thinking seriously of plans for greater development in the postwar era.

Like the lumbering industry, the commercial fishermen of the Upper Peninsula have been content in the past to catch the fish and send them elsewhere for processing and marketing. The sub-committee's report, however, shows that commercial fishermen are thinking of doing more of the processing at the point of production, thereby furnishing more employment locally.

In recent years, the Upper Peninsula fishing industry has been filleting herring on a small scale, putting up smelt in attractive packages, and making other experiments in preparation and marketing of their product. More revenue and employment for the Upper Peninsula commercial fishermen is also seen in the establishment of freezing plants for the storage of surplus production. During the past few years, large amounts of smelt and herring have been shipped to Green Bay, Milwaukee, Chicago and other cities for freezing and storage. This could be done just as well at Escanaba and other Upper Peninsula fishing ports.

As a result of the efforts of Michigan State College, the Michigan Conservation department and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service much progress has been made in the last few years in popularizing carp, herring, smelt and other so-called rough fish. Carp was served sometime ago at a Farmers' Week banquet in East Lansing and the diners called for second and the third helpings.

Commercial fishing represents a sizable industry in the Upper Peninsula, and the interest shown in its development by the fishermen themselves is a good indication that it will see marked expansion in the postwar era.

Gestapo Nabs Petain

MARSHAL Petain has outlived his usefulness to the Nazis, and so the Gestapo has shown Hitler's appreciation of his services by kidnapping him from his Vichy villa and placing him under virtual imprisonment.

Just why the octogenarian hero of World War I was imprisoned by the Germans is not revealed. There is the possibility he realized too late that he made a mistake when he offered to serve as a Nazi puppet ruler at Vichy, and was prepared to make a last-minute effort to vindicate himself in the eyes of the French patriots.

Because the French people held Petain in high respect, the Nazis used his prestige as head of the Vichy government to reduce the burden of policing Axis-occupied France. Quite likely, the aged marshal was actuated by a desire to save the remnants of France when he headed the Vichy government, for he believed at the time that Great Britain would soon topple and Germany would become the dominant power in Europe. But he underestimated the courage and stamina of the British, who fought on despite overwhelming odds.

Marshal Petain, always a conservative, is not in tune with the new liberal spirit of France. He thought he was serving France well by endeavoring to save a part of its territory, not realizing that what the true Frenchmen want most of all is freedom, as exemplified by the continued resistance offered by the underground throughout the period of Axis occupation, he real France is now being revealed by a remarkable fighting spirit of the Maquis fighters, who recently captured many French towns alone and were no small factor in yesterday's liberation of their loved city, Paris.

Stop Deer Poaching!

WHAT are the conservation and sportsmen's clubs doing nowadays?

Back in the depression years when there is a greater appreciation of the value of serving our fish and game resources as means of promoting the tourist business, we organizations were in active with reservation projects of different types. I've wholeheartedly backed the Michigan conservation department in their efforts to force the game and fish laws, and even so far as to offer cash rewards for information leading to the arrest and conviction of stream dynamiters, deer slayers and other wanton violators. Nowadays, we organizations are inactive; in fact, we are just about dead.

And yet the reasons for which these organizations were formed some years ago are in greater measure today. Deer are being killed off of season, deer that are property of every citizen but are only being taken at a time and by methods prescribed by law. Incidentally, these deer are not being slaughtered by backwoods settlers and farmers to any great degree. Instead 90 per cent of the kill is being made by city folks, many of them the very people who regard themselves as great sportsmen.

An Escanaba resident wrote a letter recently in protest against the illegal slaughter of deer and other game. He explained he had two sons in the military service, who expect to come back and enjoy the hunting and fishing of the Upper Peninsula some day. What are the conservation clubs going to do to meet this challenge?

World War In The Air

BY MAJOR A. P. de SEVERSKY

Any given phase of a war can be reduced to an equation of two main factors—quality and quantity. Now that Allied fortunes of war are on the ascendant, it is interesting to examine the great conflict in terms of those two factors.

Without being too technical, it is obvious that a larger force can be overcome by a smaller one only if the smaller one makes up in quality for what it lacks in size. By the same token, a force of superior quality can be defeated only when enough quantity is brought to bear to make up the margin. As military science has it; quantity in itself is a quality. But true quality is always preferable because it defeats the enemy with a smaller investment in human lives.

These are axioms of war-making. When the two sides in an action are identical as to both size and quality in men and machines, then superior tactics or brains will decide the issue, unless sheer luck or accident intervenes to upset the balance.

—NAZI TAKING LOSSES—

Now that German forces both in the East and the West are retreating and taking heavy losses, it should be noted that since he started the war, Hitler has switched from reliance on numbers—on sheer quantity—to desperate efforts to overcome Allied quantitative advantages by means of a step-up in German quality.

At the outset of the war, in September of 1939, Germany counted on the effects of terrific surprise as represented by its new method of using land and air forces as a coordinated team. But over and above that, its entire strategy was based on the immense preponderance of force; in short, on quantity.

But this faith in numbers and mere mass acted as a boomerang. Just before the war, in a visit to Germany, I talked with top Luftwaffe commanders. I pointed out the clear inferiority of their airplanes, especially in the matter of fire power. This was no news to German airmen, of course. At a Paris aviation show, they had seen the latest Spitfires and Hurricanes which the British had deliberately exhibited in order to impress England's preparedness on the Germans.

—RELIED ON NUMBERS—

The Germans, however, did not seem worried about their qualitative inferiority. When I questioned them, they smiled mysteriously. After the war got under way, the mystery was quickly explained. The Germans were convinced, it appeared, that their superiority in numbers would be great enough to overcome any and all resistance regardless of quality.

Their miscalculation showed up in the Battle of Britain, when the Nazis sought to knock out the R. A. F. in order to assume control of the skies over the Channel for the planned invasion. The quality of British men and machines proved to be so high that it more than made up for Germany's 3-to-1 numerical advantage.

In the East, when Hitler attacked Russia, he reckoned, on the contrary, on defeating vastly greater numbers with a smaller but superior force, both in the quality and quantity of its weapons. In the beginning his plan worked. But at the critical point Allied strategic bombing began to grind down German industry, thus cutting into Germany's ability to maintain a quantitative edge in the matter of weapons. At the same time American aid began to make itself felt on the Soviet side. In short order it became clear that the Russians, despite their heavy losses at the beginning, had gained quantitative superiority over the enemy. It was the reduced German productive capacity, caused by our air assaults, that prevented Hitler from accumulating weapons necessary to stem the Russian counter-offensive.

—GERMANY'S FATAL ERROR—

When we started our strategic offensive against Germany's industrial set-up, the Nazis switched to reliance on quality in meeting the threat. And there is little doubt that German research did win an edge in the quality of fighter planes. Fortunately the edge was not wide enough to overcome Allied superiority in numbers. Though the enemy inflicted serious losses on our attacking air forces, we were able to absorb them.

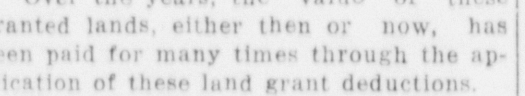

In the beginning of the war Germany made a fatal mistake by failing to provide the aerial means to destroy the industrial set-up of the Allies. As its own industries are melting away under the blows of Allied strategic air power, it is only natural that German reliance begins to shift from quantity to quality. That is why we hear so much about secret weapons. "Secret weapons", after all, is another name for qualitative advantage, since they aim to inflict with surprise greater destruction on the enemy with a smaller investment of life and substance.

Fortunately here, too, the Anglo-American air offensive was the determining factor. By wrecking German industrial capacity, it precluded the possibility of enough robot bombs and other "secret weapons" to affect the course of the struggle. There is, obviously, a limit beyond which quality loses its value. Firearms are superior to bows and arrows; yet theoretically we can visualize such a terrific massing of bows and arrows that it smother a machine gun.

By this time Allied quantitative superiority is so great that, to save itself, Germany would need not merely another secret weapon but a truly miraculous weapon. And that is something German scientists cannot do for Hitler.

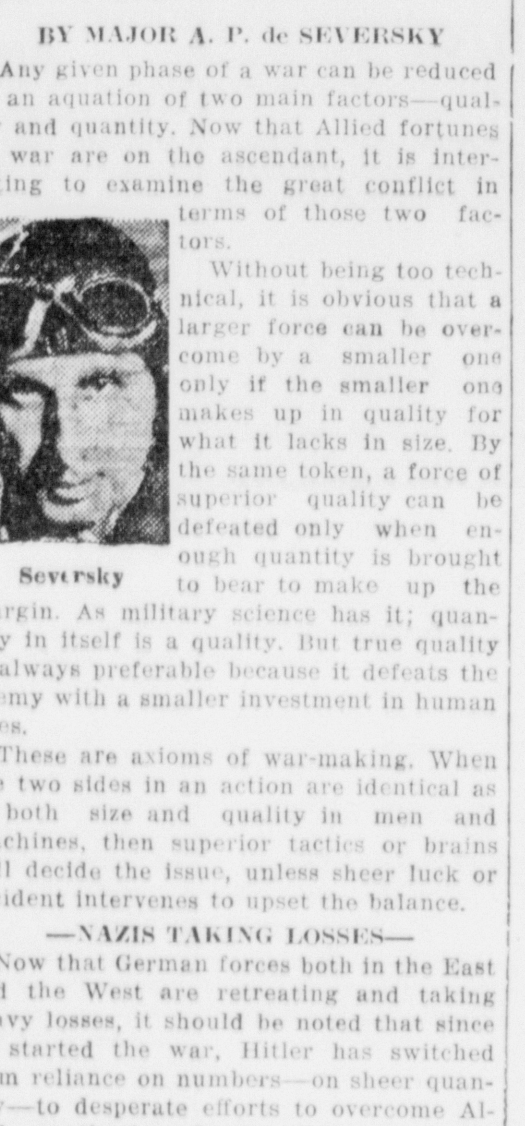

You are not getting old until you like to be home on time.

A man bigger than you is never a liar—he's merely mistaken.

Savagery at Its Worst---From Now On

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

GOING UP—Tourist traffic (for just traffic) is going up in the Upper Peninsula this year. It's not increasing very much, but there are indications of what we may expect in the coming years as the war draws to a close and to a final ending.

Vehicular traffic across the Straits of Mackinac, always a barometer of travel into and out of the Upper Peninsula, is up 8.6 per cent for the first seven months of 1944 compared with a similar period last year. Despite the increase, however, it's still below 1942 by about 60 per cent—which was a big traffic year because of the immense amount of defense work under way at Sault Ste. Marie, Escanaba, and other strategic Upper Peninsula points.

This year the increase is believed to be primarily the result of increased tourist and vacation travel. It has been estimated that this increase in tourist traffic runs as high as 25 per cent, and the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau has reported that tourist travel is definitely greater this year.

Where these folks are going seems to be a little difficult to determine. Certainly they are not the poorer class of people who used to camp at state parks. For it has been reported from Lansing that fewer visitors are counted in up-state parks this season.

—AND HIGHER—Whatever the tourist is burning in his gas tank (sales tax figures show Michigan consumed three times as much naphtha last year as the year before, and OPA is planning to put naphtha on the rationed list) he is getting around more this year. However he obtains the gasoline for long trips is a matter between his conscience and the gas dealer—but it doesn't stop him from coming to Michigan from far-distant states.

All this goes to prove that Michigan's pre-war tourist advertising is bearing fruit even in wartime. What the future holds for the tourist industry in Michigan is anybody's guess, and it's the prediction generally that the vacation business will boom.

Plenty of preparations are being made by the state and communities to hop on the postwar projects band wagon for a development of tourist facilities. These range all the way from bigger and better parks, to general improvement of natural attractions.

The state highway department is stacking a lot of chips on the postwar projects pile, and rightly so. For it is over the highways of the state the flood of tourists will pour in the years to come. Those who talk optimistically of postwar aviation concede that roads will still be used more or less. Most people are guessing they will be used more, and are willing to go along on a program of highway development such as the state has seldom seen in the past.

HIGHWAY, TOO—There has never been a time in the history of the state highway department when a bridge across a river or other separating body of water was not considered a part of the highway system.

Following this policy, the state back in 1923 purchased boats and started a state ferry line across the Straits of Mackinac, administered by the state highway department and considered a part of the state highway system.

In the pre-war years traffic across the straits increased by leaps and bounds—such leaps and bounds in fact that cars often lined up for six or more miles waiting hours and their opportunity to make the crossing. Such conditions can be looked for in the postwar period, with the volume

"My plan for a tunnel which would be more particularly described as a subaqueous roadway has been submitted to Mr. Ziegler (Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler, state highway commissioner) and is now on file in the highway department," Hasley adds.

"It would be a step toward the goal if the several newspapers of the Upper Peninsula would lend an ear to the cries of the distressed and shivering passengers awaiting their turn to get across the Straits," Engineer Hasley comments.

All users of state highways are interested in what the highway department will do to solve the inevitable postwar traffic problem at the Straits. The Greyhound News reports on what was accomplished before the war toward a bridge project.

"First step in bridging the Straits of Mackinac has been completed at St. Ignace with the ending of work on the causeway, a very difficult engineering feat. A similar causeway is planned for Mackinaw City and a bridge between them will span the waters of the Straits. No one knows when the work will be completed, but when, and if, it is, it will be in postwar days."

After reciting the controversy that has attended plans to construct a Straits bridge, the Greyhound News adds: "But the St. Ignace end of the project has been completed. What happens in the future belongs to the future."

Washington—Congressmen who have heard the inside story of General Benny Giles kow-towing to the British in Egypt are burnt up, some talk of probing the whole Near Eastern picture.

One thing which especially burns them up is General Giles' instruction to Americans in Cairo last month that there should be no celebration of the 4th of July. The General sent out word that celebration of American independence from Great Britain might offend our British allies and there should be no dinners or parties among those under his command.

As a result, Cairo was so quiet on July 4 that one Britisher approached an American friend next day and said: "Very inhospitable of you fellows, not to invite us to any of your 4th of July parties. We've always been invited before."

NOTE—Many Britishers do not agree with Churchill's Empire policy of throttling the Greek liberation movement; also have no great respect for General Giles' subservient attitude toward Churchill policy.

—WASHINGTON COLD AIR—

An engineer at the Navy Department building got a call the other day to come to a room on the second floor, raise the temperature in an overchilled, air-conditioned suite. Arriving at the room, the engineer was surprised to learn the man who had complained was Polar explorer Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd.

NOTE—Washington doctors say their summer business has never been better since air-conditioning hit the capital. Donald Nelson recently got midsummer pneumonia. Lt. Earle Mayfield, son of Texas' ex-Senator, came to Washington's air-cooled hotels from Houston, was taken to the hospital on a pneumonia stretcher.

—SEN. OVERTON'S ISOLATIONIST RECORD—

Most significant election development of the year has been the increasing casualty list of isolationist or obstructionist members of Congress, including Bennett Clark of Missouri, Worth Clark of Idaho, "Cotton Ed" Smith of South Carolina, Lambertson of Kansas, Starnes of Alabama, and Dies of Texas.

Now it looks as if the trend were continuing in Louisiana, where Senator John Overton faces the fight of his life. Last time Overton ran for re-nomination, in 1938, he was unopposed; had only 250 votes cast against him in the final election. This time, however, he faces two hard-hitting opponents.

Difference is that, between 1938 and today, Overton made the mistake of leading a vigorous crusade against Roosevelt's attempt to revise the Neutrality Act in order to send arms to England. Overton led this fight even after war had started in 1939. Again, in 1940 he told Senate colleagues: "I am not one of those who expect that Hitler will be over here tomorrow or possibly next year."

While this happened before Pearl Harbor, the people of Louisiana have long memories. Also, Overton has been shown up on occasion by opposing important war legislation in the secrecy of the Appropriations Committee, of which he is a member, until he got certain patronage out of the White House. Thus, he covertly opposed the lend-lease bill until the little matter of a U. S. Marshall in Louisiana was adjusted. After that he voted for lend-lease.

All of which is now coming back to haunt him.

—CHURCHILL AND MARLBOROUGH—

Close friends of Winston Churchill reveal that the key to his most important moves is his ancestor, the Duke of Marlborough, founder of the Churchill dynasty.

(The men Churchill chooses for important posts, his policies of Empire—all are influenced by studying the life of Marlborough.)

Lord Halifax for instance, will never have to leave his post as British Ambassador to Washington as long as Churchill is Prime Minister, for Halifax's ancestor once saved the Duke of Marlborough from jail.

Likewise, Churchill's friendship for Sir Alexander Cadogan and the latter's appointment as British peace-machinery negotiator date back to the fact that Cadogan's ancestor was chief of staff to the Duke of Marlborough when Marlborough invaded Ireland in 1690.

Sir Alexander is now chief British delegate to the Dumbarton Oaks conference to lay the cornerstone for future world peace. Churchill best tells the story himself in his book on Marlborough.

"William Cadogan (later Earl of Cadogan), a Dublin lawyer, had won Marlborough's confidence at the taking of Cork and Kinsale," Churchill wrote. "Throughout the ten campaigns, he was not only quartermaster general, but what we should call chief of staff and director of intelligence. It was Marlborough's practice to send with the reconnoitering cavalry and officer of high rank who knew the commander-in-chief's mind and his plans and could observe the enemy through his eyes. Cadogan repeatedly played this part."

"He shared Marlborough's fall, refusing to separate himself from the great man to whom I am under such infinite obligations. I would be a monster if I did otherwise."

While this happened before Pearl Harbor, the people of Louisiana have long memories. Also, Overton has been shown up on occasion by opposing important war legislation in the secrecy of the Appropriations Committee, of which he is a member, until he got certain patronage out of the White House. Thus, he covertly opposed the lend-lease bill until the little matter of a U. S. Marshall in Louisiana was adjusted. After that he voted for lend-lease.

All of which is now coming back to haunt him.

—CHURCHILL AND MARLBOROUGH—

Close friends of Winston Churchill reveal that the key to his most important moves is his ancestor, the Duke of Marlborough, founder of the Churchill dynasty.

(The men Churchill chooses for important posts, his policies of Empire—all are influenced by studying the life of Marlborough.)

Lord Halifax for instance, will never have to leave his post as British Ambassador to Washington as long as Churchill is Prime Minister, for Halifax's ancestor once saved the Duke of Marlborough from jail.

Likewise, Churchill's friendship for Sir Alexander Cadogan and the latter's appointment as British peace-machinery negotiator date back to the fact that Cadogan's ancestor was chief of staff to the Duke of Marlborough when Marlborough invaded Ireland in 1690.

Sir Alexander is now chief British delegate to the Dumbarton Oaks conference to lay the cornerstone for future world peace. Churchill best tells the story himself in his book on Marlborough.

"William Cadogan (later Earl of Cadogan), a Dublin lawyer, had won Marlborough's confidence at the taking of Cork and Kinsale," Churchill wrote. "Throughout the ten campaigns, he was not only quartermaster general, but what we should call chief of staff and director of intelligence. It was Marlborough's practice to send with the reconnoitering cavalry and officer of high rank who knew the commander-in-chief's mind and his plans and could observe the enemy through his eyes. Cadogan repeatedly played this part."

"He shared Marlborough's fall, refusing to separate himself from the great man to whom I am under such infinite obligations. I would be a monster if I did otherwise."

MRS. FALLMAN PASSES AWAY

Funeral Services To Be Held Saturday

Mrs. John R. Fallman, 77, of 630 South Tenth street, a resident of the community for the past sixty years, and a senior member of one of the community's well known pioneer families, died at 1:45 o'clock Wednesday morning at St. Francis hospital. Her death followed only a few days' serious illness.

Mrs. Fallman was born in Varnland, Sweden, on March 27, 1867, and came to this country to make her home in Escanaba, as a girl.

She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Arnold Postlering of Iron Mountain; one son, Clark J. Fallman, of Chicago; and one sister, Mrs. John Moe, of this city.

The body was taken to the Anderson funeral home for preparation for burial and will be in state Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Service will be held at the funeral home chapel at 2:30 Saturday afternoon and burial will be in the family lot in Lakeview cemetery. The last rites will be conducted by the Rev. Alun Jones of the Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Fallman was a member.

Laura J. Perrin Dies In Waukegan

Miss Laura J. Perrin, 71 member of a Waukegan, Ill., pioneer family, and a cousin of members of the Perrin family of this city, died Sunday at St. Therese hospital in Waukegan, following an extended illness.

Miss Perrin, who was head librarian of the Waukegan public library for 35 years, was born in Waukegan, October 12, 1872 and spent her entire life there. She was the daughter of Levi and Elizabeth Perrin, whose names were interwoven with the early life of the community. Her father, an employee of the Chicago and North Western railway, was among the group who constructed the company's first railroad line beyond Waukegan.

In 1904, Miss Perrin became head librarian at the Waukegan Public Library, serving in that capacity until her retirement in 1939. Just recently, she had been awarded a first grade life certificate in library work, receiving the award since her retirement.

The deceased was educated at St. Regina academy, Madison, Wis. She was a member of the Waukegan Woman's club and Immaculate Conception church.

Surviving are two nieces, Miss Laura Trevenen, a teacher at Waukegan Township High school, and Mrs. Chester Adams, Barnum Minn. A brother, Andrew J. Perrin, and a sister, Mrs. George Trevenen, preceded her in death.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 9 a. m. from Immaculate Conception church. Burial was in Ascension cemetery.

Dumbarton Oaks Parley Has Great Possibilities

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—There is a tendency, perhaps because it's a political year, to build up the Dumbarton Oaks conference as more important than it really is, on the one hand, while pushing it over with the other hand.

Actually, there is an excellent chance of reaching a working agreement at what Sir Alexander Cadogan, head of the British delegation, called "the humble official level." The conference was never intended to do more than prepare the way for a final agreement.

In the light of this modest aim, the pomp and circumstance surrounding the first session seemed excessive. Or at any rate, the number of news reel cameras focused on the conference table was out of proportion to the scale of the event itself.

The men who sat around that table in the glare of the klieg lights were chosen because of their brains and their technical ability. All indications are that they will start with a framework on which there is general agreement, since all three countries have previously circulated draft plans which coincide at major points.

Now it will be necessary to fill in some details. A great deal of hard work must go into the effort to find a formula for incorporating the smaller nations so they will feel part of a going concern. While the great stars of international statesmanship are conspicuous by their absence, since this is an "exploratory" gathering, each country has sent capable representatives who come primed with the point of view of their respective countries. They are men of experience.

Alexei Vishinsky, a vice commissar of foreign affairs for the Soviets and judge at the famous Moscow treason trial, might have added a bit of color and authority to his delegation. One thing however, is in favor of Ambassador Andrei Gromyko, and that is that the conference will know when he speaks that he speaks not for himself but for Stalin. Whereas, if Maxim Litvinoff, also a vice commissar of foreign affairs and with far more background than the ambassador, had been chairman of the delegation, there would have been room for doubt.

No one could but be impressed with the Soviet Admiral and the Soviet General who sat at the conference table with Gromyko. They are both young men, and yet you felt they had been tempered by the fire of death and destruction which has rocked their land. They had the look of quiet strength that seems to mark most of Russia's fighting men.

Cadogan, permanent under Secretary of state for foreign affairs in Britain's advanced civil service system, is one of the most capable men in the field, with a long background of experience. At the opening meeting, his remarks had more substance than those of any other speaker. He injected a reminder that no matter how beautiful the political plan arrived at, it will mean little in a world torn by economic uncertainty.

China Sending Dr. Koo

For the conference with the Chinese, to follow the present sessions, Chungking is sending one of China's most brilliant men, Dr. Wellington Koo, who has been ambassador to England during the war. Dr. Koo has represented China at almost every international conference since the Versailles Treaty. In 1915, he was Minister to the United States.

A good argument can be made, it seems to me, for keeping the sessions of these specialists closed as they will be during the conference. Troops are stationed at every entrance to the estate and visitors' credentials closely scrutinized.

What is being done is tentative. An argument between Gromyko and Cadogan, or between Cadogan and Under Secretary of State Stettinius, chairman of our own delegation, does not mean a permanent difference—as it might seem to mean in big headlines in the newspapers.

This same argument, however, will not hold for the sessions at which all the nations will discuss the Dumbarton proposals. Then the plan must be subjected to the cross fire of public opinion around the world. It must be subject to modification and change in accord with the hopes and fears of mankind everywhere.

PREPARE HERE FOR USO DRIVE

Preliminary Meeting Is Held; Reelect Cleary Drive Chairman

Plans for the 1944 United War Fund drive from which is derived all funds for the operation of the USO and other wartime services, were outlined for Delta county yesterday noon at a meeting at the Delta hotel, with Harry Brackett, county War Fund chairman, presiding.

Fred Cook, Upper Peninsula field representative for the National War Fund, attended the meeting and advised on the organization of the campaign for funds which will be undertaken in October.

Included in the United War Fund budget for the county will be the Boy Scouts of America, Veterans' Affairs, Salvation Army, Campfire Girls and Red Cross fund. These are all local budgets for local activities, and are included in the drive, as they were last year, so that only one over-all fund raising campaign will be required.

Chairman Brackett appointed a budget committee which will meet to work out budgets for the various organizations participating in the campaign. Announcement of the budgets for the participating organizations and the total will be announced soon. The budget committee is composed of Fred Earle, J. J. Bartella, George E. Bean and William Warmington.

Last year Delta county successfully met a budget of $31,000 for the United War Fund and participating local agencies which set a new record in fund raising for the county. It was also the first time that fund raising drives were combined into one major effort for the financing of local organizations.

At the meeting yesterday Gerald Cleary, chairman of the 1943 United War Fund drive, was unanimously reelected to conduct the drive this year. Other members of the committee also were reelected. They are William L. Marble of Gladstone, vice chairman; Clint Dunathan, secretary, and Carl Wickman, treasurer.

Attending the meeting yesterday besides those already named were O. J. Thorsen, Wells; George Weingartner, Rock; O. V. Thatchler, George E. Bean, S. N. Bradford, Escanaba; C. Titus, Wallace Cameron, J. T. Jones, Gladstone; Alfred Brandt, Mrs. A. W. Erickson, Merton Jensen, Grover Lewis, Carl Nelson, Escanaba; Dr. Nathan Frenn, Bark River; Capt. Milton Anderson of the Salvation Army, Escanaba.

Summer Ice Rink Draws Big Crowd

SAULT STE. MARIE, MICH.—Hundreds of ice skaters from all parts of the United States have been attracted to this city by the summer program at the Pullar community stadium and artificial ice rink on east Portage avenue.

The Pullar is one of the few summer ice palaces open in this country during wartime and business is up 50 per cent over last year. An average of 75 out-of-town skaters is present at each morning, afternoon and evening session, and it has been necessary to put on an additional patch session each week. On Sunday nights the skaters usually number around 400.

Pop concerts, with combined stage and ice attractions, are given weekly. Pierre Brunet and Andre Joly, professional skaters and world champions, are in charge of events and instructions. Sessions will continue until Labor Day.

The profit margin before taxes in World War I was 11.9 per cent. In 1943, it was 7.7 per cent of gross receipts.

Jackson and Tindle Co. Property Sold To Ford

Announcement of the sale this week of the Jackson & Tindle sawmill and local properties to Munising to the Ford Motor Co. of Dearborn was made public Wednesday by Howard Jackson, president, and Zeno Nelson, vice president, and sales manager, of Jackson & Tindle, Inc.

Dismantling of the sawmill was started Wednesday morning, and the machinery will be shipped out for modernizing and overhauling, to be put back into operation as soon as possible.

Mr. Nelson said Henry Ford was personally interested in the purchase of the Jackson & Tindle holdings, which carries out the Ford policy of acquiring old sawmills and modernizing them as an economic aid to smaller towns of the Upper Peninsula which are dependent on the processing of forest products for their labor.

Detailed information was not available as to what kind of plant will be put into operation at Munising. Other Ford holdings in the peninsula include plants and sawmills at Iron Mountain, L'Anse, Alberta and Big Bay.

The mill and property at Munising was purchased by Jackson & Tindle in 1936 from the Cooperage Co., and the mill was operated until the Spring of 1938.

Mr. Nelson left for his home in Grand Rapids, after being in Munising the past several days while negotiations were under way with Ford officials from Detroit, Iron Mountain, L'Anse and Big Bay. Henry Ford, founder of the Ford industrial empire, who has been vacationing at the Huron Mountain club near Big Bay, was also in Munising the middle of last week.

Ford Owns Nearby Lands — Ford Motor company officials were reluctant to discuss the plans for the utilization of the new holdings. It was learned, however, that a crew of about 30 men was recruited to dismantle portions of the plant, and that some of the equipment would be shipped away, either for repairs or replacement by modern wood-working machinery.

The Ford company owns several sections of timber land in an area about twenty-five miles west of Munising, just north of Rumely. Several jobbers are operating on the tract, and the prisoners of war, stationed at the Au Train CCC camp, are engaged in producing cordwood for the Ford chemical plant at Iron Mountain.

The Jackson and Tindle company had scattered holdings of timber

bite to eat or a drop of water. All this for eight days and nights. Yet when we found him his physical condition was strong, and his mind was as calm and rational as though he were sitting in a London club. He was in agony, yet in his correct Oxford accent he even apologized for taking up our time to get him out.

The American soldiers of our rescue party cursed as they worked, cursed with open admiration for this British flier's greatness of heart which had kept him alive and sane through his lonely and gradually hope-dimming ordeal.

One of them said, "God, but these Limes have got guts!"

It took us almost an hour to get him out. We don't know whether he will live or not, but he has a chance. During the hour we were ripping the plane open to make a hole, he talked to us. And here, in the best nutshell I can devise from the conversation of a brave man whom you didn't want to handle with trivial questions, is what happened—

He was an RAF Flight Lieutenant, piloting a night fighter. Over a certain area the Germans began letting him have it from the ground with machine-gun fire.

The first hit knocked out his motor. He was too low to jump, so foolishly, he said—he turned on his lights to try a crash landing. Then they really poured it on him. The second hit got him in the leg. And a third bullet cut right across the balls of his right-hand forefingers, clipping every one of them to the bone.

He left his wheels up, and the plane's belly hit the ground going uphill on a slight slope. We could see the groove it had dug for about 50 yards. Then it flopped, tail over nose, onto its back. The pilot was absolutely sealed into the upside-down cockpit.

"That's all I remember for a while," he told us. "When I came to they were shelling all around me."

Thus began the eight days. He had crashed right between the Germans and Americans in a sort of pastoral no-man's land.

For days afterwards the field in which he lay surged back and forth between German hands and ours.

His pasture was pocked with hundreds of shell craters. Many of them were only yards away. One was right at the end of his wing. The metal sides of the plane were speckled with hundreds of shrapnel holes.

He lay there, trapped in the midst of this inferno of explosions. The fields around him gradually became littered with dead. At last American strength pushed the Germans back, and silence came. But no help. Because, you see, it was in that vacuum behind the battle, and only a few people were left.

The days passed. He thirsted terribly. He slept some; part of the time he was unconscious; part of the time he undoubtedly was delirious. But he never gave up hope.

After we had finally got him out, he said as he lay on the stretcher under a wing, "is it possible that I've been out of this plane since I crashed?"

Everybody chuckled. The doctor who had arrived said, "not the remotest possibility. You were sealed in there and it took men with tools half an hour to make an opening. And your leg was broken and your foot was pinned there. No, you haven't been out." "I didn't think it was possible," the pilot said, "and yet it seems in my mind that I was out once and back in again."

That little memory of delirium was the only word said by the remarkable man in the whole hour of his rescue that wasn't as dispassionate and matter-of-fact as though he had been sitting comfortably at the end of the day in front of his own fireplace.

Park Hotel Opens For Ca-Choo Club

Sault Ste. Marie—The first 50 or 60 members of the Ca Choo club of America, original hay fever organization, have arrived for the formal opening of club sessions in the Park hotel convention hall here this week. Many others are due to arrive before the week is out.

Total registrations are more than 200, considerably higher than last year. The local chamber of commerce has received and serviced more hay fever inquiries this season than at any time in its history. Most of the inquiries are coming from the Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland and Indianapolis areas, with some as far away as Cincinnati and St. Louis. Many hay fever patients are here for the first time. Hotels are enjoying capacity business, and accommodations for many hay feverites have been found in city homes or St. Mary's river resorts by the chamber of commerce.

Worry Clinic
With Case Records Of
A Psychologist

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE D-232: Laurabelle H., aged 16, is an only child.

Her parents were feuding and about ready for the divorce court when they came to see me a couple of months ago. I spent several hours, seeing each one separately and then both of them together.

"Your diagnosis of our recent difficulties was certainly correct," Laura's father wrote to me last week.

"We have followed your advice, so my wife and I are quite happy once more. I shall never forget your kind assistance.

"But we have a problem with our only daughter, which we didn't mention during our visit to your office.

"Maybe in your newspaper column you can answer it. We'd like to know how we can cure our 16-year-old girl of her fear of the dark.

"She has always slept in our bedroom because she cried and grew hysterical at the thought of sleeping alone."

Diagnosis

Dr. John B. Watson's extensive research with newborn babies showed only two natural causes for fear, namely, loud noises and falling.

All other fears that we possess, therefore, must be learned reactions. We acquire fear of the dark because of ghost stories, ideas of robbers or somebody who will jump out and yell "Boo."

Or we feel shut off from our loved ones and very much alone. Darkness produces a feeling of introversion. Extroverts are especially hostile to darkness.

So are people with gully consciences, for when they cannot keep their attention on outside visual objects, they begin to think of their crimes and worry.

Cure Fear of the Dark

Because we may bump into objects in the dark and hurt our shins, there is a certain amount of caution and uncertainty that develops with reference to darkness, even if we do not fear ghosts or robbers.

But a child can be conditioned favorably to the dark by various methods. Tell him that rabbits and other small animals do their romping and eating at night, for the lawns can't see them then.

Darkness is thus Nature's blackout for the little creatures. It gives them their chance to live and work in reasonable safety. Just as our war blackouts protect the lives of people from hostile bombing.

You can also play games with your child at night, such as hide-and-seek. Let him hide in his bedroom closet with all lights on and the doors open.

Next, let him do so with doors shut but lights on. Finally, do so with lights out and doors closed. His delight in fooling you, as you affect perplexity in trying to find him, will soon attach to the darkened room, and make him feel more pleased in the unlighted bedroom thereafter.

Children Want Bedfellows

But children like to have companions with them in bed. Because they demonstrate anthropomorphism, or the ascription of human attributes to inanimate objects, then let them have a doll or woolly lamb or cloth monkey to sleep with them.

They can talk to these companions and thus feel shut off from human contacts. All five of our children have had such bedfellows. Judy, Daniel and David still demand them.

If an older child like Laurabelle tries to browbeat her parents into keeping her in their bedroom by means of her tantrums or hysteria, gently reason with her. Use the methods above mentioned, but then be firm.

Tell her she must act like a big girl. Make her sleep in her own room. Send for my 100-point "Rating Scale for Mothers," enclosing a 3c stamped, addressed envelope plus a dime.

DRIVE SUCCESSOver Six Tons Collected
In City Sponsored Campaign

Twelve thousand, three hundred and fifty pounds or a little more than six tons were collected in the city-wide scrap paper drive conducted here Tuesday.

City trucks and crews canvassed the residential and business sections of the city all day long and for a time it appeared that they would not be able to finish the job in one day. However, the final pickup was made late Tuesday and yesterday the last of the contributions were disposed of.

Assisting the city crews were a large number of Boy Scouts from Gladstone troops.

The paper was sold to one of Delta county's wholesalers and money derived will be put to some suitable use later upon decision of the city commission. It will probably go to some service organization.

In other drives of this nature the money has been divided between the United Charities, which includes the USO, and the Red Cross.

Ten dollars a ton is now being paid for scrap paper.

Acting City Manager H. J. Henriksen said yesterday that he considered the results of the drive highly satisfactory—in fact the amount contributed ran about fifty per cent over expectations.

Troop No. 66 is guided by Scoutmaster Harold Mackie and Troop No. 56 by Mason Meyer.

The campaign was carried out in a house to house canvas. Here-tofore paper had been collected by the boulevard and doorstep fashion. This form of house to house collection proved to be more successful as the figures show.

NEW GENERATOR
AT PAPER MILLInstallation Will Be Completed In About
6 Weeks

The Manistique Pulp and Paper company received Saturday a 1,000 K. W. generator which will be installed in about six weeks.

The generator is steam driven and will produce 1,000 kilowatts of electric power per hour.

According to R. G. Hentschell, the new installation will serve three purposes:

First, it will permit the grinding of more pulpwod by allowing an electric grinder that now works only eight hours per day to operate a full 24. The grinder will work its customary eight hours on power furnished by the Soo Edison company and the remaining 16 hours on power generated by the new source.

Second, it will allow the continuous operation of the paper machine during periods which the plant also is providing stand-by lighting power for the city. As it is now, the paper machine must be shut down while power is being provided for the city because of lack of capacity.

Third, it will allow full operation of the pulp mill and paper mill during periods of low water when the hydro-electric plant does not furnish sufficient power.

Cass Quits Job At Royce Park; Season Finished

Harold Cass, director of the Royce Park playground, has terminated his duties at the park and the playground will be closed for the rest of the season, the city recreation department announced last night.

Cass will leave for Romulus Saturday where he is athletic director at the high school. Cass has been director at Royce for the past two seasons during which time his playground teams and entries have won more championships than any other individual playground in the city. Major part of the credit for re-organizing the old timers' softball league goes to him as he persisted in his contacts with former players until this year a very active league got under way, which he directed. This year he also was largely responsible for the re-organization of an active horseshoe league which played twice a week and which has helped develop interest in horseshoe to a greater extent at Royce than in any other part of the city.

On leaving yesterday, Cass stated that cooperation in the Royce Park area had been unusually fine and that this had made his work very pleasant. He said, however, that other duties and activities made it very unlikely that he would be able to return to the system next year.

Horseshoe Title Won By Anderson

Sonny Anderson downed Ray Robitaille last night to win the Escanaba city horseshoe championship at Royce park, 53-10, 53-41.

In the first game Robitaille led on the first shot, 4-0, but from then on it was all Anderson. The second contest was more of a battle, with Robitaille holding his own all the way. He threw the game away on the last pitch when neither of his shoes came close to the stake and Anderson tossed in the clinching ringer.

Both shooters were on their game and the ringers fell with great regularity. In winning the tournament Anderson survived a field of 20 who started Monday night. He succeeds Joe Gardner, last year's champion, who was knocked out in the semi-finals by Robitaille.

The Sports Parade

My Menominee operatives who informed me recently that Carl-ton B. Roels had been signed as athletic coach at Menominee high school did not miss the boat as I suspected that they had when I read the announcement that Ed-ward Pederson has been named to succeed Fritz Miller as coach of the Maroons. Either that or those operatives have missed the boat a second time, which I greatly doubt. Anyway, the latest reports from Menominee reveal that Roels actually had been signed as coach of the Maroons but decided to go to Estherville, Iowa when high school authorities there hired the Roels on the pay check. Roels previously had signed at Estherville, after leaving Benton Harbor.

You sport fans who shell out a half a buck, more or less, to sit in on a high school football or basketball game and then think that perhaps you have been gyped when the game failed to develop the thrills you anticipated may be interested in a news item printed recently in a Chungking, China tabloid size newspaper. The item concerned a scheduled basketball game between an Army Air Force team of the USA and a Chinese all star team. The game was scheduled to be played in Chungking and admission was $100. The cost of the newspaper advertisement the game was $25, single

The importance of sports to American fighting men is reflected in the fact that $20,000,000 worth of sports equipment will be sent overseas this year to American service camps. Principal sports are football, volleyball, boxing and horse shoes because they require less space and equipment than other games. The new sports plan under preparation will give soldiers competitive sports whenever they can take time out from fighting. One of the Aleutian island bases has softball fields. Lt. Col. Henry W. Clark, head of the athletic branch of the special services division, has revealed. He added that GI's are already making good use of these stadiums Mussolini built in Italy.

It is surprising how many football fans attend games regularly season after season but don't bother acquiring a working knowledge of the fundamental rules which regulate the game. Since the fouls and the enforcement of penalties represent a vital part of the game, a knowledge of the football rules vastly increases the enjoyment one gets from attending the games. Equally beneficial is the ability to interpret the official's signals which are always given by experienced officials before the penalty is invoked or during the enforcement of the penalty. They are the means by which the fans keep abreast of developments on the field.

Hunters received cheering news this week in the announcement by the War Production Board that increased ammunition will be available this fall for the hunting of ducks, pheasants, quail, and other wild animals and birds that are causing widespread destruction to crops. Relaxation of the ban on hunters' ammunition presumably means that the needs of the armed services have been met and that attention may now be given to civilian requirements. The fall allocations, however, will not be unusually heavy since approval has been granted thus far for the manufacture of only 130 million shotgun shells, 240 million rim fire cartridges and 8,000,000 center fire cartridges.

City Beam Balance Title Is At Stake
The annual city balance beam championship will be held at the junior high school playground this afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock. Competitors will be the best five performers on the beam from each of the four city playgrounds. Although age division championships will be declared on individual playgrounds, there will be no age limits in the final event. The event will be directed by Ruth Goodreau, junior high playground supervisor. Cauliflower will not head without man's assistance. The leaves must be tied up over the developing head to shield it from the sun.

The champion of champions among the men was John A. Peterson, 50-year-old Racine, Wis., shipping clerk. He broke 98 of 100 to win that title by a single target from Herschel Creek, of Clinton, Ind., and George Wagner, of Dayton, O.

Tom Houghton of Flint, Mich., a 78-year-old retired automobile dealer, was the first champion crowned in the tournament. He broke 98 of 100 targets to take the veteran's championship, a shoot limited to persons more than 70 years of age. The 98, incidentally, was the best score Houghton ever had posted in the "roaring grand" although he has missed only one of the shoots in the last 20 years.

Other Michigan scores: Class B—Herbert Cutting, Detroit 94 out of 100; Sam Parker, Detroit 95 out of 100; Bill Schneider, Dearborn 95 out of 100. Class C—Monty Ellsworth, Roscommon 78 out of 100 and Walter Tullbert 94 out of 100.

Girls Softball Tourney Planned
A girls softball tournament will be conducted at Gladstone Sunday afternoon, Cliff Frasher, recreational director of Gladstone, has announced. Teams desiring to enter are requested to contact Frasher before Friday. Drawings will be made either Friday or Saturday.

DICKEY GRADUATES
New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—Lieut. William M. (Bill) Dickey, former New York Yankees' catcher, and Ensign William F. Hulse, former New York University runner and America's fastest outdoor mile runner, were in a class of 858 officers graduated today at the United States Naval training school at Fort Schuyler. Also in the class were Ensign Irving A. Hall, who played football with the Philadelphia Eagles, and Ensign Maurice M. Craft, Jr., former outfielder with Boston Red Sox farm clubs.

Dizzy Trout and Newhouser Travel In Select Company

BY JOE REICHLER

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—Hal Newhouser and Paul "Dizzy" Trout are traveling in rather select company these days. They are the new members of Detroit's "20-game winners' club," which, since the American league was organized in 1900, has had only 13 names on the roster.

Trout, ace right hander, followed Newhouser into the 20-game victory class when he defeated the New York Yankees last Sunday, and it marked the sixth occasion that the Tigers have had two or more 20-game winners simultaneously.

The 13 members of this mythical club won 20 or more games 26 times, with the highlight of concentrated pitching strength coming in the club's first championship season—1907—when Pat Donovan, Ed Killian and George Mullin each won 20 or more, and Ed Siever won 19, the four accounted for 89 of the Tigers' 92 victories that year.

Killian and Mullin had collaborated two years earlier to gain 20 triumphs each, with Donovan only one game shy of that figure. Mullin was joined by a newcomer in the 20-game circle in 1909, when Ed Willett made the grade.

Another pair, George Daus and Harry Coveleskie, teamed to notch 23 victories each in 1915, but not until 1934 did the club again boast two 20-game men. That year Tommy Bridges and School-boy Rowe won 24 and 22 games, respectively.

Until Trout and Newhouser came along this year there were no more double winners, although Bobo Newsom played a single role in 1929 and 1940 and Trout made it alone last year.

Mullin elected himself to the 20-game club five times. Coveleskie, Bridges and Daus made it three times, with the first two doing it in successive years. Joe Yeager in 1900, and Ed Summers in 1908 were other lone 20-game performers.

Should either Trout or Newhouser gain the won and lost leadership this season, he will have become the fifth Tiger pitcher to achieve that honor. Mullin, with 29 wins and eight defeats in 1909; Coveleskie, 23 and 10 in 1916; Eldon Aker, 18 and seven in 1926, and Rowe, 16 and three in 1941, were the other leaders representing Detroit.

Hiestand Cops Trap Title For 4th Time

BY HAROLD HARRISON

Vandalia, O., Aug. 23 (AP)—Capt. Joe Hiestand of Hillsboro, O., and Fort Myers, Fla., today became the first man in history to win the North American Clay Target championship four times.

He annexed his fourth crown at the 45th Grand American Trapshooting tournament by breaking 200 straight targets. The Army captain, who has captured about every trapshooting title in existence, won the North American in 1935, 1936 and 1938.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Ruth Knuth of Indianapolis, Ind., was waiting in the wings to step under the spotlight tomorrow. She won the women's champion of champions event with 94 x 100 today, and appeared to have a grasp on the North American women's title.

Mrs. Knuth, still using the gun with which she started trapshooting five years ago, finished early with 183 of 200 targets. When they finally called it quits tonight, the only contestant with a chance was Mrs. George Peters of Springfield, Ohio, the daughter of Charles (Sparrow) Young who has shot in all 45 Grand American.

The champion of champions among the men was John A. Peterson, 50-year-old Racine, Wis., shipping clerk. He broke 98 of 100 to win that title by a single target from Herschel Creek, of Clinton, Ind., and George Wagner, of Dayton, O.

Giddy Tam O'Shanter Whirl Goes On Today For $42,500 Lettuce

BY FRITZ HOWELL

Chicago, Aug. 23 (AP)—Golf-dom's giddiest whirl, with some of the confusion eliminated by three days of qualifying rounds, gets under way over the 72-hole medal play route tomorrow as George S. May presents his three-way woman - amateur - pro - all-American race for $42,500 over Tam O'Shanter's rolling terrain.

Twenty-six Simon pures, survivors of a starting field of 384, along with 28 women from an original 49, and 100 of 240 professional entrants, were still in there ready to pitch and putt for the large lure.

Most of the "good ones" did not appear in the qualifying tests being exempt along with an unknown number of service men for the permit rules set up for the seven-day merry-go-round which permit the stars to go directly into competition. All the hot-shots will be in the field, with Byron Nelson of Toledo, Ohio, and Harold (Jag) McSpaden of Philadelphia favored in the professional race which will net the winner some $13,462.50—a sum which no golfer has even taken from a single tournament up to now.

McSpaden and Nelson in a practice warm-up today beat Bob Hamilton, new P. G. A. champion, and Sam Byrd by three strokes in a 12-hole match, each of the favorites being one under par, as was Byrd.

Today's professional qualifier, due to start at 8 a. m., didn't get away until 11 because of a heavy rain, and the late starters were still hacking their way around when darkness fell.

The best the pro's could do was a pair of 68's, turned in by Henry E. Williams, Jr., of Rogersford, Penn., and Claude Harmon of Grosse Pointe Woods, Mich., each of whom ripped two strokes off par on each half of the course.

Their scores, however, were still one over the brilliant 67 with which Ed Furgold, Detroit public linkster, paced the amateur field Monday. While the amateurs needed scores of 75 or better to get into the title play, 77 was good enough to get into the professional fold.

Kleimola Accepts Superintendent Job At Harris School
Hermansville—Jack W. Kleimola, who resigned this spring after 13 years as principal and athletic director at Hermansville high school, has accepted the position as superintendent of schools at Harris.

His resignation at Hermansville this spring was a severe blow to the students who regarded him as their best friend. Kleimola's popularity has been extremely strong as his record shows in his long coaching and teaching tenure here. He constantly worked with the students and modest, unassuming, accepted no credit for it.

Kleimola was born and raised in Mountain Iron, Minnesota, where he received his grade and high school training. After graduation he enrolled at the University of Minnesota from where he received his B. S. degree in economics in 1930.

Kleimola's first teaching job was in Hermansville in 1930 and he remained there as principal and athletic director until 1942 when he accepted a similar position at Marquette. The following year he returned to Hermansville and was there until he resigned this spring. For the past few summers he has been taking up University of Michigan post-graduate work and finished his course this summer at Marquette and is expected to receive his masters degree this fall from the university.

Kleimola, who amassed a magnificent coaching record at Hermansville, was known to have refused a countless number of coaching jobs throughout the state and northern Wisconsin this summer.

Kleimola's wife and child will remain here for the present time.

Bill Veeck's Boys Doing All Right In Piloting Brewers
Milwaukee, Aug. 21 (AP)—The boys Bill Veeck led behind to run his Milwaukee Brewer baseball club when he joined the Marines last fall are doing right well for their absent owner.

They not only are keeping his club on top in the American Association race and lead in attendance, but they are adding substantial sums to the Brewer bankroll through the sale of players to big league clubs.

Charley Grimm was one of those boys. He moved on to manage the Chicago Cubs this summer, however, so Rudy Schaffer, Mickey Heath and Casey Stengel have been carrying on, Schaffer is general manager, Heath a former big league-vince president and Stengel the team manager.

They have sold four players to the majors this year, the latest being Hal Peck, an outfielder who is hitting .351. He reports to the Athletics next spring.

Munising News

Work In Munising
Schools To Start
Wednesday, Sept. 6

Pupils in the Wm. G. Mather high school will be expected to be in their home rooms at 8:20 on the morning of Wednesday, September 6, ready for the opening of classes at 8:30. All classes will meet on the opening day, and work will be assigned and started on that day. All pupils having 11 or more units will be in the twelfth grade, 7 or more in the eleventh grade and 3 or more in the tenth grade.

Home rooms are assigned as follows: 12th grade, A to L, Mrs. Havela, room 123, M to Z, Miss Johns, room 121; 11th grade, A to K, Mrs. Liberty, room 217, L to Z, Mr. Plehn, room 202; 10th grade, A to J, Miss Welsh, room 219, K to Z, Miss Carlson, room 205; 9th grade, Mr. Brown, room 221; 8th grade, Mr. Peterson, room 207; 7th grade, A to K, Miss Baker, room 215; L to Z, Mrs. Strom, room 216.

If you have not enrolled for this year, please see Mr. Jackson before the opening day. Mr. Jackson will be in his office each day, except Saturday afternoon until the opening of school. Pupils promoted from the sixth grade or seventh grade in the Munising township schools will not need to see Mr. Jackson as their cards are made out. Pupils transferring from other schools should see Mr. Jackson. Bring promotion cards. Cards are made out for all pupils in the school according to subjects they selected last spring.

However, there are some conflicts. For example, a number of pupils asked for bookkeeping, modern history and general business training, and it will be impossible to take all three of these subjects, due to conflicting periods. Such pupils are asked to come in and choose a substitute course. Also, it will be impossible to take beginning stenography and cooking the same year as the periods conflict. Some senior girls have asked for community health and advanced stenography and these come at the same periods. There will not be a class in auto mechanics. Seniors with a good math background should take physics instead. It will be well for all seniors to drop in and see that their program is lined up.

All pupils are expected to take physical training in the seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth grades.

22 Counties Protest Higher
Equalized Value Set By State

Lansing (AP)—Twenty-two of the state's 83 counties protested vigorously to the state board of equalization Tuesday over their tentative county equalized valuations, but the board replied to many of them with criticism of their local tax policies.

Auditor General Vernon J. Brown, board chairman, and Louis M. Nims, chairman of the state tax commission, brought many of the objectors up short by demonstrating that they were failing to bear their proper share of the cost of government.

The county and school official critics argued that the board, in recommending equalization increases in 66 counties, was depriving them of portions of the state school aid money which they expected. Under the school aid law, an increase in equalization results in a reduction in school air grants from the state.

NO PROTEST HERE
Neither school officials or county representatives have protested an increase by the state in the equalized valuation of Delta county, unofficially reported to be $22,500,000. Last year the state set a valuation of $18,000,000 for Delta county, and assessed valuation set by the county board is about $17,500,000.

Counties Robbing Themselves
To county after county, Nims and Brown retorted that while they were complaining the state was injuring them they were, at the same time, failing to spread all the local school taxes which were allocated to them. In Washtenaw spending two weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Chudacoff. Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Derham of Marquette visited friends here on Tuesday.

Pvt. Floyd Creamer, stationed in California, is spending a furlough at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tiernan.

Miss Carol Doucette has gone to St. Ignace to visit relatives for a week.

Miss Rita Schilling has returned from Pontiac where she has been employed.

and Mason counties, notably, the two state officials said, the counties were equalizing their taxes at below the face of their assessment rolls and were robbing themselves of tax money as a result.

Nims said he regretted the effect of the board's decision on school aid distribution, but that such a consideration was outside the board's province and that the state equalization was intended solely to indicate to local assessing officers what their rate of assessments should be.

True Cash Value Basis
The controversy is a result of the board's determination to fix all local tax equalizations on a true cash value as demonstrated by actual real estate sales within the counties prior to the inflation period. Nims said the supreme court has held such a course was the only legal one, but that the board, under other administrations, has failed to follow the law.

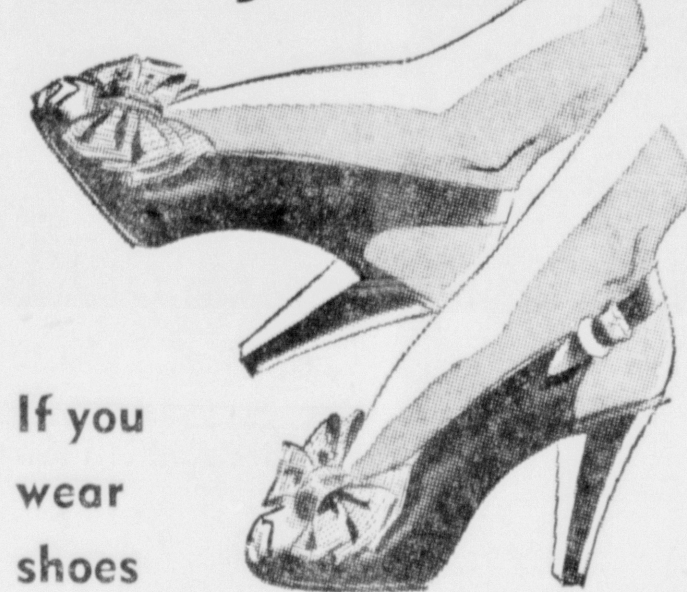

Representatives of Detroit, Genesee and Oakland counties all complimented the board on their decisions. Harold J. Merritt, Oakland county corporation counsel, declared his associates had been opposed to the board's method until an independent survey showed the board was "systematic, scientific and impartial."

Will Cut School Aid
C. W. Bremer, Muskegon superintendent of schools, declared the practical effect of the board's decision was to reduce many school districts' state aid at a time when it was seriously needed. He suggested the board delay any action until the legislature has an opportunity to change the school aid law.

Representative Joseph E. Warner, Ypsilanti, asserted "I see no way out of it but to boost the state school aid appropriation $10,000,000 next year to $60,000,000. I think that may be done."

Nims said the equalizations now under consideration were not in effect until the 1945-46 school year. In the interim, he said, the legislature will have an opportunity to change the school aid law and local assessors will have a chance to re-assess property in line with the state's recommendations.
